POLITICS LIKE SPORTS HE SAYS

Prof. W. J. Shepard compares the two in address.

"We make sport of politics, and the reason England and America get results from playing the game of politics is this: fundamental trait of competitive sportsmanship," said Prof. W. J. Shepard in an address before the Constructive Christian Democracy Club at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium Monday night. Professor Shepard talked on "Recent Tendencies in Political Theory."

A political theory was defined as the generalization and explanation of political fact, while a theory which does not conform to facts was denounced as useless.

The three main political theories discussed were that states are supreme over the area over which they rule; that government emanates from the people; and that government should be divided into the three divisions—the legislative, judicial and the executive.

The theory of a separation of powers was discussed at some length. The speaker told of the tendency to draw from this theory various municipalities adopting the commission form of government which is giving much satisfaction. That the sovereignty of the states owes its strength largely to the fact that people are willing to swear allegiance to their respective state was also stressed by Professor Shepard.

The theory of Bolshevism is the subject to be discussed at the next meeting of the club.

RESERVES SPACE IN SAVITAR

Ad Club to See That State and County Clubs Are Represented.

The Ad Club has reserved a large section in the 1921 Savitar, the space to be used by the numerous county and state clubs. It is probable that each club will be given a half-page of space.

Louis D. Potter, of the club, urges that each county and state club make arrangements at once with the Savitar management for space in this section, and have their pictures taken this term.

"It is the plan of the Ad Club," said Mr. Potter, today, "to send a copy of the Savitar to every four-year, accredited high school in the state."

State clubs can secure no less benefit from representation in the Ad Club section, it is said. One member of the Iowa Club, which had a page in last year's annual, said today:

"Students coming to the University look to the Savitar, rather than to the catalog, in forming their opinions of the school. They feel more friendly toward the school when they find students from their state or locality are organized and ready to welcome them and help in their start. Much good was felt from last year's picture of the club in the annual and is reflected by the large increase in the number of Iowa students now in the University."

ROOM SCARCITY FORESEEN

Many Homecoming Guests May Be Homeless, Miss Crump Says.

"Columbia must sustain her reputation of hospitality by throwing open her homes for the use of the visitors Homecoming Day," says Miss Pearl Crump, who is in charge of the room situation for out-of-town guests.

In round numbers there are 10,000 seats sold for the Thanksgiving game, and about 4,000 of these are for persons living in and about Columbia. This leaves about 6,000 out-of-town visitors. The question that is facing the Commercial Club is, what can be done to house them?

Some will stay at the different fraternity and sorority houses and with friends, but the majority will stay where they can. They believe that it will be an easy matter to secure a place to stay and are not making any reservations for rooms.

Some applications are coming in each day but the number of rooms listed so far has fallen short of even this demand.

Beasley Case Not Brought to Trial. William Johnson appeared in the justice of the peace court yesterday afternoon to testify in his suit against Thomas Beasley. Beasley did not appear and the case did not come to trial. Johnson is suing Beasley for damage done by him which got into a field of Johnson's corn.

INCREASE IN PUBLIC NURSING

Red Cross Has Brought Need of Rural Nurses Before People.

In the last year the Red Cross has gained more direct concrete results in public health nursing than at any previous time. On May 1, 1920, there were 831 public health nurses at work in the Red Cross service, and it is reported by the national Red Cross headquarters that there will be as many as a thousand in the service by the close of the year.

Nearly 25 per cent of the Red Cross chapters have done something about public nursing. Many of them have themselves begun a nursing service. Some few have expanded the service by means of other agencies. This has resulted in a remarkable development of public health nursing all over the country and especially in the rural districts.

The Red Cross has been responsible for the bringing of rural nursing to the attention of the public. Not only has the idea of public health nursing been carried to every corner of the country, but it has secured its recognition as a definite local need. There is scarcely a county in the United States that does not have some idea of why a public health nurse is needed. Public officials and private citizens are beginning to understand public health nursing and are coming to think of it as a necessary service.

Rural nursing has also been popularized among nurses by the Red Cross. Formerly interest among nurses was centered upon city work. Today rural nursing occupies the lightning and again by the hundreds are flocking to it. The younger nurses especially are preparing for that work.

There has been a remarkable boom in all schools teaching public health nursing. Such training has been given a great impetus and nurses generally are becoming convinced of its need before undertaking public health nursing.

Enrollment of Illinois to Be 10,000

More than 10,000 will be the total enrollment of the University of Illinois this year, according to figures announced yesterday. There have registered in the Urbana-Champaign schools and colleges 7,551 students and in the colleges of dentistry, medicine and pharmacy in Chicago 753, making a total of 8,304 for the fall and winter terms. An enrollment of below normal in the summer term would bring the total well above the 10,000 mark.

Many Use Special Delivery.

An average of 200 special delivery letters a day have been coming into the Columbia postoffice during the first eight days of November, according to L. J. Hall, Columbia postmaster. He attributes this large number of specials to the approaching Homecoming Day. As yet the Thanksgiving packages have not begun to arrive, but he expects to see the first of them about next Monday.

Reads Paper by Dr. H. B. Shaw.

At a joint meeting of the A. S. M. E. and the A. I. E. E. Monday night, W. C. Wheeler read a paper on "Cooperation Between Engineering Schools and the Public Utilities," written by Dr. H. B. Shaw of New York City, now head of Doherty Training Schools. Doctor Shaw taught in the University of Missouri from 1900 to 1914, when he became first Public Service Commissioner for Missouri.

CHILDREN TO PLAY AT CHURCH

Mothers are invited to bring their children to the nursery in Fisher Memorial Chapel while they attend the Presbyterian Church services. This nursery is under the care of University women who will see that the youngsters have a good time while the mothers are enjoying the services. For information phone Mrs. Beckenridge, 417. adv.
